Starting with this issue, we are attempting to show the total numbers of species on provincial - and other - checklists. These are the numbers shown above in parentheses. Our problem, in doing so, is attempting to ascertain, and keep up to date, regarding this type of information. For some provinces, plus certain other locations, it is not only difficult to determine correct figures, but it is also unclear as to who or what the official sources of such information really are.

We'll appreciate being updated by readers who recognize our figures as obsolete (and we suggest many of them are) and who can, and will, correct us. Please provide identification as to the source of information when doing so. Thanks.

In May, 1985, we'll be reviewing location lists such as National Parks, popular birding spots, etc. Additionally, we'll try to find space to deal with big days, big years and so on.

If you wish to update us on any of these types of figures, please do so by March 25th.
