LISTERS' CORNER

Welcome to the latest edition of Listers' Corner, especially to newcomers Alan Fishkin and Bernard and Thérèse Goulet from Alberta and Juliette Pellerin and Jollande St-Pierre of New Brunswick. After a four-year absence, Mike Toochin (BC) is again submitting his lists.

Last December I included a questionnaire with the registration forms. The questionnaire solicited opinions from subscribers about their satisfaction with this newsletter and about some proposed changes. I thank the 73 people that took the time to respond. The results are presented and discussed below.

The first question asked if you would like to see a different title for Listers' Corner. Only 11% of respondents wanted to see a new title so I will keep the original name. Three of the few folks that did want to see a name change suggested calling it Canadian Listers' Corner, which I like, but for simplicity sake won't adopt. The second question about font type and size was asked because I thought that maybe some of the print was too small to read. However 93% of those surveyed were happy with the status quo.

Questions 3, 4 and 5 dealt with how much discussion you would like to see about general results, summary statistics and personal achievements, respectively. For all three questions the response was the same. About 75% of respondents wanted the same amount and about 25% wanted more discussion. I would be happy to slightly increase the amount of discussion, so please feel free to send me interesting stories and achievements to discuss!

When I asked about adding or removing listing areas, I was hoping to get some new ideas. On one hand, reporting places year after year where only one lister visited only a few times, a long time ago, gets to be a bit stagnant. On the other hand, it makes others aware of lesser-known places with good birding potential. A good suggestion for a new reporting area was North America, which I have added to the data form. I'll be using the ABA's definition of North America, which I can provide to anybody who doesn't have it. Some people suggested putting areas in the newsletter (where apparently nobody even has a threshold-breaking list), just so listers could be reminded where they were. In the interest of saving paper, space and postage, I'll not be doing that.

Anyway, keep on submitting new areas with threshold-breaking totals. Possible ideas include yard lists, self-found (i.e., only birds found without the assistance of rare bird alerts or other tips) lists, or number of 'completed family' lists. As a point of interest, it is time consuming for me to identify non-threshold breaking lists that are written on the data sheets. I don't mind seeing how close people are to thresholds, so if you still want to record such lists on your data sheet, please indicate which totals are (not/) reportable (and please have your American state lists published elsewhere).

First and foremost, bird listing should be fun, but I have always wondered if we are all 'singing from the same song sheet' when it comes to comparing our local lists. In the future it might be a good idea to let me know how your local area is defined. Parks, islands and nature reserves usually have definite boundaries, but 'cities' and valleys can sometimes be interpreted differently. If available, I usually use a checklist area as my standard. For example: I base my Okanagan Valley list on the checklist, which includes Okanagan drainage basin in Canada, as well as the Similkameen Valley south of Keremeos. This is also why I report separately for Saskatoon (i.e., the Saskatoon Checklist Area) and the Saskatoon city limits. Listers have been asking about places like Toronto (i.e., Greater Toronto Area (Coady and Smith 2000) vs. the Toronto Region (50 km circle centred on the Royal Ontario Museum)) or Point Pelee National Park vs. the Point Pelee checklist area.

Unfortunately the wording of question 7 (would you like to see Listers' Corner continue as an independent publication?) was a bit vague so I had difficulty interpreting some of the responses. However, most of those who did express a clear answer did not want this newsletter integrated with another publication.

The last question dealt with making Listers' Corner available on the Internet. The motivation for this was to save paper, printing and mailing costs. I appreciate that some of you do not have or choose to use computers and I know that hard copies are easier to read and access. Nearly all of the readers were opposed to having the newsletter exclusively on the web and most wanted the choice of having it printed on the web or on paper. The trouble with having Listers' Corner on the web is that, unless there is some sort of password system, it allows non-supporters easier access, which is financially unfair to you. Putting it on the web also means more work for me and, given my history of bouncing around the country, changing URLs (i.e., web address) every few years. So for the time being this newsletter will continue to go out by regular mail.

Finally, as I am sure many of you are aware, there are bird lists that exceed the past or present records that are printed in this newsletter. However, several top listers, living or deceased, do or did not wish to have their totals printed and I respect that. I recently contacted some very active birders with known record lists and none of them wanted their totals printed – not even anonymously. This is why I have been reluctant to even mention all-time best lists of those who don't subscribe.

Victoria artist Laurie Savard drew the cover illustration of the Rhinoceros Auklets. If anybody is interested in seeing more of Laurie's work, contact her at 1215 Pembroke St., Victoria, BC, V8T 1J6, (250) 386-8067. My current address is 451 Arrowhead Park Road, Huntsville, ON, P1H 2J4, but I have a permanent snail-mail address at 119 Holland Road, Saskatoon, SK, S7H 4Z5 and a permanent e-mail account at: burkekorol@yahoo.com.

The following table lists significant milestones that were achieved in 2001. John Luce reached 1500 for his ATPAT in style with a White-headed Woodpecker. My 300th Ontario bird was a California Gull (followed by a Black-headed Gull the same day).

LIFE LISTS

Again, I will be using North American totals from Tony White's Birding Newsletter, which is current up to November 2001. As with the ABA, Clements' 5th edition is the authority used for world species and families.

To be published a birder needed a life list of 40% of the provincial/territorial total in PEI, Newfoundland and the territories and 50% of the provincial total in the other provinces. Thresholds are 350 for Canada, 500 for the ABA area and 1000 for ATPAT and world life lists. Thresholds are shown after an area's total list. Life lists are the most recent entries that I received up to the end of last year. An asterisk (*) indicates that I did not receive that person's list for 2001. Figures in parentheses following a birder's name are increases reported since last year.

This year's report includes threshold-breaking lists from 117 birders, which is the same as last year, and includes 19 people that I hadn't heard from by the time this issue went to the printer. The number of birders that have made the Canadian threshold increased again and is now at 90. With the addition of four, the number of listers in the ABA category is now at 75. Forty-five of us are now reporting world life lists of at least 1000 species. The 48 ATPAT lists reported here is seven more than last year. New Brunswick continues to show good growth in its number of reporting birders, but Ontario was again the province with the most birders (72) making its threshold.

Except for the addition of seven to Doug Phelan's Newfoundland list, most of the top listers in each province managed to add one or two species. A notable exception to this were the six and seven ticks added to Hue and Jo Ann MacKenzie's 400+ British Columbia life lists, respectively. With the addition of Mike Tootchin's life list of 432, a new standard for British Columbia has been set. By adding four species each, Danny Tyson and John Luce now have 400 species in British Columbia. The long-staying Wood Storks on Pelee Island helped out a number of Ontario's top birders. Same goes for the Regina Red-bellied Woodpecker and Saskatchewan listers. Three birders have now seen over 300 species three provinces: Roger Foxall (BC, ON, NS), myself (BC, SK, ON) and Eric Tull (BC, AB, ON) and Jo Ann and Hue MacKenzie have seen over 400 in British Columbia and over 300 in Ontario.

There are still only five birders that have made the cutoff in 10 or more provinces / territories, but by now having a reportable list from the Yukon, Roger Foxall has made the threshold in 11 jurisdictions. Provincially, some of the biggest improvements over last year's lists were by Bryan Gates (12 in BC), Roger Foxall (17 in BC), Eric Tull (8 in SK), Brooke Clibbon (14 in MB), Harold Stiver (14 in ON), the author (23 in ON) and Michel Chiasson (15 in NB).

Not unexpectedly, the best reported Canadian lists continue to move at a snail's pace, but at least the top three all got to add something. Mike Austin remains as the only subscriber with an ABA list over 800, but with 752 Mike Tootchin has the highest list for a Canadian resident. Unlike last year, I remembered to include the world life lists (sorry about that!) in this edition and as you can see, Martin Edwards now has a world life list of over 7000 species! Congratulations to Martin on his remarkable milestone.

LIFE LISTS

Rose-Aline and Hilaire Chiasson posted the biggest increases (+39 and +41, respectively) in a Canadian life list in 2001. Also noteworthy were the 15 ticks added to Danny Tyson's Canadian total, which is now at 452. The best gains for an ABA list were submitted by Martin Bowman (+39) and Gillian Horgan (+40) but John Luce probably had to work a bit harder for his 25 new species. Most of the world birders found something new in 2001 but with 485 birds Roger Foxall added the most. Remarkably, Martin Edwards increased his world tally by 249 species. The best ATPAT increases were from Roger Foxall (126) and Andrew Slater (132). Eric Tull put a little distance between himself and Blake Maybank, but both still managed to improve their ATPAT lists and continue toward 3000.

Twenty-seven birders are now world family listing. Roger Foxall and Harold Stiver added 19 new families in 2001. While Bill Crins and I were in Chile, we saw representatives of families like Rheas, Diving-Petrels, Magellanic Plover, Seedsnipes and Plantcutters.

YEAR LISTS

Year lists given here are a birder's best ever year list as well as their 2001 year list. Year list cutoff thresholds were 30% of the provincial/territorial list for PEI, Newfoundland and the territories, 40% for the other provinces and 80% of the life list cutoff for Canada, ATPAT, ABA area and the world. Thresholds are shown after an area's total list. Eighty birders made the cutoffs for one or more year lists, which is one more than last year. Canada (45), Ontario (41) and British Columbia (28) were the most popularly reported areas.

With the exception of British Columbia, none of the long-standing big provincial year list records were exceeded in 2001. Mike Toochin greatly improved upon the best ever year list for that province with an annual total of 363 species (which was also the highest Canadian list last year). Roger Foxall also had a good year in BC with 333 birds. Robert Parsons ticked 270 in Manitoba and Juliette Pellerin came very close to the New Brunswick record of 217 with her 214. With 255 ticks, Murray Newell had another respectable year in Nova Scotia.

DAY LISTS

As with year lists, a birder's best ever day list and their best day list for 2001 are both reported. To be published, day lists had to make thresholds of 20% for PEI, Newfoundland and the territories and 30% for the other provinces. Thresholds are shown after an area's total list. Fifty-seven day lists (an increase of four) are reported here from 32 birders (unchanged from last year). No new all-time best days were established but the biggest days of 2001 were from Laurie Rockwell (145 in BC), Rudolf Koes (174 in MB) and Margaret Bain (162 in ON).

WINTER LISTS

Winter lists cover the period from 1 December to 28 (29) February. Winter life lists - the birds seen during those months in any year - are reported as of the end of 2001. Single winter lists are of species seen during one winter. Listed are a birder's best ever single winter list and their list for the winter of 00/01. The thresholds for winter life lists are 25% for Canada, British Columbia and Ontario, 15% for PEI, Newfoundland and the territories and 20% for the other provinces. Thresholds for single winter lists were 5% less. Thresholds are shown after each category in all jurisdictions. Fifty-nine birders submitted winter lists (up by four) that met or exceeded these thresholds.

Winter life lists of over 200 were again reported from Ontario, British Columbia and Nova Scotia, but improved winter lists from New Brunswick continue to be reported. With growing evidence to support the theory of Global Warming, I suspect that winter listing in Canada will become less of a challenge in the coming years. Last December I was aware of a Black-necked Stilt in Ontario and a Long-billed Curlew in Saskatchewan! Jo Ann MacKenzie found six new species for her Canadian winter life list, which should reach 300 species in a few years. Although no single winter records were broken in 00/01, there were some nice totals reported. John Luce, Danny Tyson and Mike Toochn all posted 200+ winter lists in British Columbia last year and Nova Scotia's Murray Newell was just five species short of his single winter record (146) in that province. David Milsom continues to be one of Ontario's most active winter birders and he identified 139 species in the winter of 00/01. Rick Toochn's Canadian single winter record (222 species) remains untouched.

LOCAL LISTS

For all but a few northern areas, the thresholds for local lists have been set at 150 for life lists and 120 for best year lists. Local life lists are reported as received by the end of 2001. Local lists are organized on a province by province basis. This year 96 birders (up 1) met the threshold for 144 local areas (up by 10). At 363, Alan Wormington continues to have the top local list (Ontario's Chatham-Kent/Essex/Lambton Counties), to which he added Eurasian Collared-Dove and Wood Stork. Andrew Slater has seen 77% of Alberta's birds in Calgary, which is the highest percentage of a province's avifauna seen in a major city. Jim Burk found his 300th bird in Rondeau Provincial Park, Ontario and Hilaire Chiasson was the first New Brunswick birder to get 300 on the Acadian Peninsula. The best annual local lists belong to Alan Wormington (270 at Point Pelee), Craig McLauchlan (276 in Toronto) and Rick Toochin (281 in Vancouver).

INTERPROVINCIAL LISTS

Interprovincial lists are those covering all or large parts of two or more provinces or territories. The lists included here are merged lists of the species seen in the area, rather than lists formed by adding provincial lists together. Note that the Maritimes (NB, NS, PEI) are now listed separately from Atlantic Canada (NB, NS, PEI, NF). Blake Maybank ticked two new species in Atlantic Canada to reach 389 and except for Gordon Grieff's three additions to Prairie Canada, there was little movement in that region. It was also quiet in the three territories.

Overall this year, 1647 lists have passed thresholds, which is up 99 from last year and up over 600 from the first time Eric put out Listers' Corner back in 1994. These lists are from 117 birders -- an average of 14.1 lists per birder. Three listers reported only one list, but 11 of us had more than twice the average number of lists that passed their respective thresholds: Rudolf Koes 31; David Stirling and Hue MacKenzie 32; Angus MacLean and Jo Ann MacKenzie 35; Robert Parsons 37; Wayne Neily 47; Alex Gray 48; Eric Tull 49, Burke Korol 65 and Blake Maybank 113. If you change your address, let me know at burkekorol@yahoo.com and please ensure that next year's registration forms are posted before 31 January. Until next year.....Good birding.
