

CANADIAN BIRDING

Volume 1 Number 2 Summer 1990

◆ Spring Round-up ◆

LISTER'S CORNER
C. Eric Tull

The success of the Record Keeping section of Canadian Birding is very dependent on you, the subscribers. To determine the space to be devoted to listing in each issue, we need to know how many people want to see their lists in print. There were two pages in the first issue, and we are aiming for two or three in the future.

Which lists are you interested in seeing published? There is no limit to the number and type of lists that birders keep, but there is a limit to what we can print. We anticipate reporting the following: local life lists; provincial day, year and life lists; Canadian year and life lists; and international life lists for the areas that include Canada.

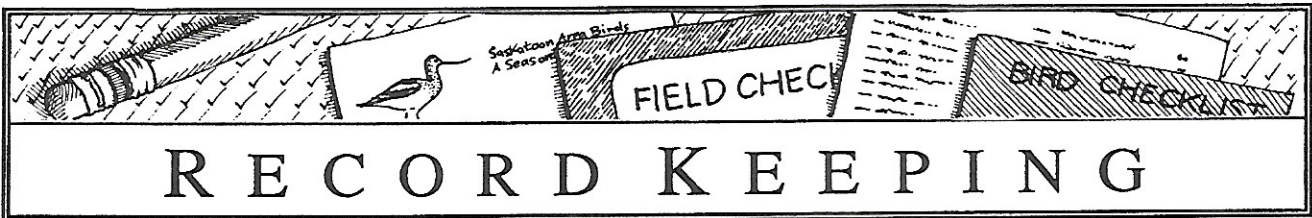

I foresee one issue each per year for provincial life lists, Canadian and International life lists, local life lists, and year and day lists. In the case of year and day lists I would like a record of the best such lists for any year, as well as those from the previous year, so that we could see who is currently most active.

There are, of course, special lists that many people keep. I was once on Seal Island Nova Scotia when Bruce Mactavish worked out his list of birds seen on or in a lobster pot (which raised the intriguing questions of whether one could legally put bird seed in a lobster pot, or transport a pot to a prairie slough). I'd like to hear of any such lists that you keep, and of any other lists that you feel should be collected and reported.

I am in the process of developing a computer database for keeping track of all the lists. It still has a few bugs in it, and in particular it gets grumpy when data arrive in a form different from what I have told it to expect. For example, it spat back every day list when a person supplied the month for the date but not the day. I'll just have to get rough with the program.

This issue reports life lists for Canada, North America (i.e., the ABA area -- Canada, USA except Hawaii, St. Pierre et Miquelon and territorial waters to 200 miles), World, and ATPAT. ATPAT (All Territories and Provinces Added Together) is a popular listing feature devised originally by Gerry Bennett. Percentages have been derived from: Godfrey (for Canada, with an guesstimated increment of 12 species since publication); the ABA checklist and supplements (for North America); Clements (1981) (for the world list); the sum of the latest ABA provincial lists (for the ATPAT list). I've included all the updates I received from subscribers, as well as the last figures published in Birdfinding in Canada.

Due to an unfortunate printing mistake, my postal code on the listing form was in error, and some updates may not have reached me. If yours was returned, please send it to me again at 324 St. Laurent Blvd., Ottawa, Ont. K1K 2Z4. If you haven't sent your up-dates in please do so, and if you have any comments on what we should be reporting please write me.
